Minutes/Actions recorded by: Sydney Arbolado, Liliana Dritz, Melina Magno. CALL TO ORDER by Enri Lala, Internal Vice President at 6:49 PM.
This meeting was called to order at 6:49 PM Flying Room A by Internal Vice President Enri Lala.

A) MEETING BUSINESS

"Before we begin, we call for students to acknowledge that the lands that the University of California locations were built upon were expropriated & founded upon exclusions and erasures of Indigenous people's human rights throughout California. UCSB is built on Chumash Land, specifically that of the non-federally recognized Barbareno tribe. As an association that pushes the student bodies' voices to the forefront, we should aim to make strides past just acknowledgment to those who continue to fight for their right to be recognized & respected as the original stewards of this land. I ask you all to dedicate time & care to personal education & to advocate for justice alongside Indigenous peoples."

B) External Reports

B-1) Chancellor's Representative -

Lala

- I believe you received an email on the petition of student services from someone in the Compliance Office of the association. Essentially, it's in the voter outreach process of the petition. It seems that some of those who looked at ads were given out prizes, wheels, merchandise, and edible items of sorts. Of course this petition process is not governed by the AS election board, it's governed by the Central Election Commission, but if successful, it winds on the spring general ballot, which is primarily governed by the elections board. Our elections board very strictly governs anything that has to do with giving out food, edible items. In fact, there were candidates sitting in this room who got strikes last spring election for doing precisely that .So the email was to the tune of, as far as I'm aware, of asking what the relevant departmental, campus and system wide policies are on this, because to be honest with you, speaking as a student, it seems a little bit like a rules for the nonviolent situation, and I'm aware that those are imposed primarily by the association, but if it's winding up on the same ballot, it's not exactly clear how the push to pay hundreds more dollars per term should be excluded from this regulation, whereas an individual candidate would not be.

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- The ballots, even though they are a combined ballot to the student, are actually separate ballots that are governed by different rules. So there's actually different thresholds for passage through the campus elections commission that are dictated by campus Elections Commission guidelines, levels for passage through something that goes on the Associated Students ballot. So they really are separate and different. I agree that people should not be handing out candy but you have to give it to everyone. You have to give it to everyone whether they sign the petition or not, you can't be trading it. You know, if you sign this, then I'll give you the piece of candy, right? Because that's not really ethical. So thank you for letting me know. I'm happy to let all of the people out there campaigning know that well, they're not campaigning, not the campaign. This is the signature collection petitioning that that's not something that should be happening.

Lala

- I appreciate that. At a normative level I think it makes sense for those two not to be intertwined.

Sussman

- For clarification, I heard rumors that students that are part of this are being paid. Is that true? To what extent that is a fair election?

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- They are employees of those departments, anything that they do on work time, they do get paid for. If the department is asking them to collect signatures, they are getting paid for. There's nothing that prevents that. At the end of the election, departments say how much staff time and student staff time they spent but that's separate for the election campaign.

Lala

- So it's the department directing students tabling at x times giving out X, Y, and Z resources to that end, and that's coordinated by the committee that runs the petition.

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- No, if a department is going out a fee on the ballot they have to collect signatures. If it's just undergrads, 15% of the undergrads, if its grads and undergrads combined, then 15% of the population. And so that takes people power to be able to do that. Most departments use student staff if they have it, some of them use student volunteers if they have them, right? Because some departments have employees, some do not in terms of student stuff so they will probably take anyone who would be willing to go out and speak to students about signing, and that is allowable within the CEC guidelines.

Lala

- Can you give us an update on how many signatures have been gathered and how many are required?

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- So 15% of the undergrad population is about 3500 signatures. Currently we're at about 3300 signatures, but you know, not all of those will be valid, like if people don't put their perm number down correctly, if they're not actually registered this quarter, if they're, you know, lapsed, or something like that. So there will be some that get kind of taken away, and we won't really know until it goes through a validation process with the campus collection.

Lala

- Does anyone have questions on the petitions?

Than

- Thank you for coming. I was talking to some students and as student staff they mentioned that they are under the impression that if this doesn't go through they will lose their jobs. Can you clarify that if this doesn't get on the ballot or if it does, are these jobs gone for them?

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- There are 18 programs and departments and services that are part of this initiative. So really, what it means is that if this doesn't go on the ballot, then what's currently being paid will just continue right? So there will be no opportunity to vote on any increase. That doesn't necessarily mean students will lose their job. It depends on what their budget approval is for next year, and that has many factors. Some departments receive core funding from the university, plus they have a student lock in fee. Other departments might be only funded through court. Funds are only funded through a student lock in fee. And then there's a budget target that's set for all departments, and the department has to work within what their budget target is. So I think probably that is true, is that if some of these increases don't pass what we will see over time, not necessarily like tomorrow. What we would see over time is probably a decrease in the number of student staff that the department is able to hire, right? Because they'll have the same amount of money that they have today, and so as wages go up, that means fewer, either fewer students that you get to hire, or fewer hours that they get to work one or the other. So I think over time, that could potentially be true, but, no, not, not like an instant thing where all students would lose their jobs or anything.

Luken

- I'm on the UCOPs on the University of California Office of the President's website right now, and under this tab, state governmental regulations, under legal guidelines for UC participation in ballot campaigns, it says university funds including university equipment may not be lawfully used for campaign purposes in connection with ballot populations. Do you have any concern that the staff were being paid to be out there, or students being paid to be out there violate this legal guideline at all?

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- No because I think they are referring to ballot propositions for the State of California.

Lala

- Has that been checked with the campus council?

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- This process is not new. This has been on campus for about 30 years. This process of collecting signatures, when someone wants to put something on the ballot, it's all benefited through legal counsel, the Office of the President. So yeah, I'm not concerned about that.

Harter

- I was going to clarify that it's not campus elections that Senator Luken is referring to on the President's website. That is statewide elections, as to my knowledge and you just corroborated that

- On the question of the student staff out there campaigning, and as you know most of us campaign to be here so I think we are aware that you change your pitch every now and then, you try one thing, it doesn't work, you adapt. But I think it matters in a slightly more explicit way, when you have to explain these 18 proposals. I'm wondering if there's a set template of what is being asked of students, what this means and especially, we have heard reports that this will shift student fees or change student fees. Has there been direction from the committee which explicitly states to students, that this means paying more than would previously have been the case because of the inflation pressure and all the rest?

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- I mean two things. One, there is a script provided to everyone to give some guidelines so people consistently have a similar message. But also the petition does lay out and has an expandable table where students can see what the increases would be, right? We've also sent two emails you know, centrally about this, to explain to students, you know what the issues are. This would mean a catch up to inflation. It's definitely an increase in the fee, for sure right, by signing the petition though, you are not voting yes or no you are just putting it on the ballot. So it's not a vote to increase your fees, just to put it on the ballot, then you have the voting authority, and once you vote on the spring election, should there be enough signatures collected.

Lala

- Thank you and I would appreciate it if that could be in CEC guidelines. I think it's good to match up the code there with what the elections board does in this process. And if you don't mind, I had another question about something and that I would really want the Senate to be aware of, something that involves many of the themes we've been talking about. This term is that of the AS Bike Shop, trying to distinguish the two names, bike up construction lock in. So the bike ship receives a set amount that it has for a really long time, maybe not quite 2006 but Sean?

Sean

- The increase is not exclusively just for construction. Yes, 2006 is when that passed.

Lala

- The base fee for the bikeshop is one thing, and then there is a lock in fee. When construction is to be completed that fee is to go away through one mechanism or another, be it through the entity itself, identity, or through the chancellor, or maybe some mechanism in the association, and through, I've checked some documentation, it seems like that will not necessarily be the case.
- My understanding is that there already is a lock in in place to maintain the function of the bike shop. I hope they continue generating much revenue, to be clear here. And then there's an additional lock in that was specifically for its construction. As a student, I would very much request its removal from one mechanism or another, because the bike shop has been constructed and it seems like there might be some other means to which it's put, such as salaries and all the rest of it. And there's, of course, the revenue the bike shop generates and then there is an additional lock in for its construction. We try to follow and UCOP here's about this very intensely so where is that at currently

- That isn't a fee through associated students, so I don't really have as much say in that because that is your association, but I would encourage you to review the ballot language and what that money is being used for. That's what I would encourage any student to do. If you're looking into how a student is being paid, and you have the right to know that because you're the ones paying it? There are mechanisms right, like I mentioned I think the last time I was here, for the association to say we would like to discontinue one of our association fee. I would encourage you though to talk to the bike shop staff to understand from them how they are using the money and what plans they have for it. If you feel like that is in line with what is approved by votes, that is your choice but I think you wouldn't want to do it without consulting the bike ship. I don't have the knowledge but you probably want to check that out before making a decision. Make sure that you know what the outcome is.

Sussman

- Two quick questions for my own clarification. Can you elaborate on what the return to financial aid is?

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- Beginning in 2006 the office of the president, and around that time is when student lock-in fees were increasing on many campuses, so that increases the overall cost of attendance. What they said is, you know, what we're going to require now is that if you pass these, you need to include at 25% return to aid provision. So in addition to what what you want to go to that program, there's going to be an additional, you know, 25% of the total fee charged that will go back to the financial aid office so that it can cover the cost of those fees, or for high needs students, right for those who qualify for financial aid. So prior to that, student fees either weren't covered, or the financial aid office had to try and find if they had, sometimes they had scholarship funds or something else, leftover funds that they could use to try and fund that for students. But it was, it was no guarantee. Back in 2006, students were like that's a lot to add to our fees, we think any addition of return to aid requires a vote. And so the agreement was that moving forward, it would be included in the vote so there would be no way that students could pass the fee without it, but if they didn't want to pay it, then they shouldn't pass the fee, right? So that money goes directly back to financial aid, and then once financial aid receives it, they redistribute it back to students based on need. So every dollar in return to aid is $1 back to students.

Sussman

- This is more internal for associated students
- What we are seeing is a lot of funding is spent on the student body, whereas, as I said last time when you were here, cost of things continues to go up and up, and we're not returning that product. So do you have any recommendations on how we utilize those unspent funds, or how we reorganize those funds that are not being returned to the student audience, especially such desperate times, if this initiative does pass, where they're going to see an even larger increase in their fees.

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- Two things. One, if this initiative goes on the ballot, students will be voting for all of those 18 kids individually, right? So we don't actually know how big the increases may be, because it depends on what students vote on. They can pass none of them, right? It could, this could make the ballot, and there can be a $0 change in fee if all of them fail, right? That's certainly a possibility, you know, or students can pass all of them, or they can pass some. One, if this initiative goes on the ballot, the student votes on. We don't know what the outcome would be. In terms of unspent funds, I really do think that it is a responsibility of the student leaders to look into that and say Okay, why are they not being spent? Sometimes it’s that the board doesn’t exist. Nobody wants to step forward and be the board member who could approve those expenses and that’s a problem and if you're collecting fees and there's no way to spend it, sometimes the needs have just changed. So you know, really looking into that and figuring out what is still important, and maybe what you know, what has a significant rollover. The other thing I mentioned to you all, like a few weeks ago when I was here, is that you can always pause, right if you are worried about if we end this fee, it's gone forever. We don't know if we'd ever be able to get it back. I totally understand that you could request a pause and say, you know, what we want to put in place is a pause on this, this particular fee, until it is spent down to at least, you know, only X amount of rollover.A little rollover is ok you need to save some money for projects and various things. Also makes rhe association look bad and you are taking students money and not doing anything with it. I really would encourage you to see what you can figure out with those fees.

Proxy Gundecha

- To add to that a little bit, I think it all begins with taking senate liaisonship really seriously. This was a situation with my senator as he felt like he didn't have the power to. Reality is, this is the top of the table and this is where it all starts. So you guys go to every single BCU, keep track of BCU funding, spread it out, divide it properly, assign people properly and get in there, oh sorry, this is just a discussion, we can discuss later.

Wahidullah

- Thank you for coming. I wanted to touch a bit on the particular models when it comes to how we are equitably using our funds. It could probably be also explanatory to find out. But could you maybe expand on some of the information you mentioned about protocol. If you could just extend knowledge information you mentioned on pausing the fees and more in detail of how the pauses go?

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- There's a little precedent for it through the graduate student association, it is an association decision. You need to figure out how much rollover you are comfortable with. You want to make sure you are speaking to the staff and students who run these programs. As I mentioned with the bike shop, you want to make sure that they aren't saving up for something to spend money on next year. If you determine that they are so well funded that we think we have 3 years of funding and we want to pause it for 3 years. The process is a notice to the chancellor for his approval to pause the fee for a length of time. Future senators can unpause it but if you pause it for awhile then it has to go back on the ballot

Harter

- I had a question that is a little bit unrelated. I need to know if you are affiliated with the academic senate at all?

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- No, it's a separate piece of the university to student affairs

Proxy Gundecha

- If we wanted to decrease the fee instead of stop it, is that also an option or similar process?

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- Technically, decreasing a fee is supposed to go to a ballot. So really the pause is just a pause, and when it comes back, it's going to be the same amount. Whereas, a decrease, you're changing the course of that forever so that's supposed to go to a student vote.

Proxy Sun

- Just a follow up, could we pause that for a quarter instead of an entire school year?

Assistant Vice Chancellor Suzanne Perkins

- Yes, you could

A Bill to Add A Position to the IVTU Legal Code

Jones - Ly

Jones (10:18PM)

- This is just a bill to add the position of administrative director. It's really simple. They just need a new position added to their legal codes, appointments and
- I went through and fixed the syntax and grammatical errors within their legal
- code. Nothing significant to add.

Ly

- The description of the administrative director is for area P, and then it adds one more position. I believe the fiscal impact is zero,

Malhis

- This is amazing, they really need this especially for new program
- Would the fiscal impact be another honoraria add?

Jones

- They told me no
- They said they spoke to finance committee about it

Lala

- Does that mean zero fiscal impact on the senate?

Malhis

- So fiscal impact now is just out of the senate unallocated now?

Sean Lieberman

- I would assume it's any fiscal impact
- Holly may know

Holly Dunn

- I would recommend that generally as a preface
- Then if IVTU theoretically doesn't have budget, they're gonna end up coming to senate and create administrative and logistical issues down the line
- If IVTU has budget, it can come out of that, if senate chooses to fund out of unallocated that's fine. I recommend IVTU if they can
- Would be my opinion you include a fiscal impact and what budget it comes from
- Finance doesn't love it when we approve things and don't say where it comes from

Motion to move A Bill to Add A Position to the IVTU Legal Code into liaison committee. Luken - Malhis

Malhis

- Think this will have a fiscal impact, it's a position, would come out of their honoraria account out of their group's budget, not a contentious issue
- Think it's a great bill
- Focusing on this new program would be great
- Notice motion language says EOP director
- This rent support program would be shifted towards FHRP
- Which could be quicker
- Readjusted once it hits committee

A Bill to Update Standing Policy 15 and Strengthen Transparency and Accountability...
Jiang - Manakova

Jiang (10:23PM)
- Would imagine a lot of you have already read it
- Purpose is to fill in the holes, policy 15 was not perfect, by making it a real thing
- That people really need to announce that you have conflict interest, and they do need to abstain from situation
- Only thing that people would want to note, positional conflict of interest
- They retain right to nullify votes
- Also state clearly
- I believe it's not controversial

Sussman
- The formatting it used to be policy
- Now it's article
- Is this creating its own article and the position in the legal code

Jiang
- It'll be by law

- Because of hierarchy
- We personally believe conflict of interest holds high importance over standing policies being non-binding

Lala
- I think you mean the former AG talking about the standing rules of the senate

Luken
- Super minor
- If it could get fixed
- It says judicial branch and it's capitalized, should be lowercase

A Resolution to Introduce a Constitutional Amendment to Rationalize the Senate's S...

Luken - Sussman

Luken (10:28PM)
- Brought last year, good idea
- Reduce the size of senate and
- To redistribute the constituencies of the senate
- As this bill stipulates we are sitting here with 13 people at the table
- Don't think we've had more than 20 this entire year
- We've had ad hoc committee, found GeoSimonian in a pool of several
- That was a diamond in the rough kind of thing
- This resolution would add these proposed amendments to constitution to spring ballot
- To be voted on by the student body
- Just giving student body opportunity to vote on this change
- I would love to see a motion to table this indefinitely because Senator GeoSimonian and I have buffed the resolution a bit and want to bring that to you guys
- I would like to see this tabled indefinitely

Sussman

- Senator Luken said it pretty well
- Redistrict how we do senate
- I think right now student voices are not being heard to their capacity
- That's because we have too many seats
- Ironic
- Means there's less competition for senate
- Means student voices are not being heard
- The way that senate is right now, not beneficial to student body
- Usually incoming freshman or they are freshmen
- Have 12 off campus senators, 2 international, 1 transfer, 1 collegiate
- 1 transfer senator
- 1 CCS, the collegiate senators as well
- Idea of making senators at large is good idea
- Think it's different when you're a college student and you're representing your peers and your friends, no matter you know what college they're in or where they live
- That doesn't really change the fact that I'm not representing their voice
- Think that's the general idea here
- To the work you're elected to do
- There's a lack of accountability and effort by some senators

GeoSimonian

- Full support of what this would do
- Introduced an updated version of this, like an updated elections system
- Do agree as I'd say
- I think that while I was originally not a big fan of making the senate smaller because I feel if you looked at the United States House of Representatives has been capped at 435 seats since 1920 something
- 435 house of reps cap has led to a lot of problems
- But what I've realized is there a big difference
- I'm not sure there are 27 people who want to be a member of the senate right now
- Noting that we only have 1 out of 5
- Would motion to table indefinitely because we're introducing an improved version of this next week
- I am in full support

Lala

- Had some communications with election board Hanson and we have to have things done by week 9 of this quarter

Ly

- How did we decide on 8?
- How many off campus senators do we not have right now?

- On our legal code, we have 12 off campus, 11 of them are here

Lala
- I was around when this was first proposed
- I was author and sponsor
- This has been the result, long standing idea
- First brought to me by staff
- Result of hours of negotiation last term
- Several criteria taken into consideration, size was part of it
- Results in odd number of people
- Presiding officer
- Which is why they came to the number they came to it was
- Very much a look at history, where are people applying, what's competitive, what's not
- So on campus I know this first hand was an absolute nightmare
- Spent 4 months recruiting for that
- Same kind of thing this year, yielded few results
- if you scroll down, you might see that it goes from one to two transfer spots. That's for the same reason that transfers were running for those spots
- Which ones work at all to them
- One rep per thousand students but it doesnt work

A Resolution to Introduce a Constitutional Amendment to Democratize the Boards, ...

Jiang - Sussman - Luken

Jiang (10:39PM)
- Pretty short bill, even though has been pretty large impact
- Typically we don't really have a mechanism to basically have a requirement for adding to use, which is why we are a little bit concerned about
- Addition of a BCU getting into the organization
- If u guys are curious why we picked the numbers
- Currently enrollment is around 23,000?

- 1000 is 4% ish, 2000 for lock in
- Lock in will be 9%
- Raising a number that's higher
- We just settled on that number

Sussman
- Large issue with not only AS but students and democracy in general
- People will be very trigger happy to say yes to things on paper
- Plato problem in political science
- Senate historically has said yes to many BCUs in thinking about long term consequences
- The long term consequences that we saw tonight on chief compliance officers Rosales spreadsheets, which again, are kind of appalling and terrifying to look at in terms of rollover
- The idea here is that the BCUs have to garner a statement for their fellow peers to bring to the Senate
- Creating an extra level of democracy
- That way they know where their student fees are going too
- Then unfortunately bully their way into that
- The senate just doesn't give them out
- Having an extra layer of support
- Actual BCUs that represent student fees

Luken
- Echoing what Senator Jones and Senator Sussman said
- This is a preventative measure
- Preventative regulation is one of the best kinds of regulation

Jiang
- What do people think about the quote in the first whereas clause?

Ono

Alex(he/him) CALPIRG

- I'm a board member with CALPIRG and here to give some updates. Last two times I was here, I talked about our work on textbook affordability, also our campaign to expand marine protected areas off the California's coast, and then also our pledge drive, which is the reason that I'm here to give a little bit of an update. In our decades of being on college campuses the main thing that gives us power is the students, specifically the pledges we get from students. We have over 30k members across the UC system that pledged to give $10 activities fees that give us training, resources, and power. Every single year we must remain 15% of the student body being pledged on our campus, so we run pledge drives every single quarter, and it's our biggest grassroots push. Apart from the actual money, it just is a great opportunity to educate students, let them know about what's going on, important issues, give them updates on how to actually get involved and help out. Winter quarter tends to be our biggest drive, and we're right in the middle of one right now. It's two weeks long. We just finished last week and we've had 733 students actually pledge CALPIRGs. We've had 126 say that they're down to come to the May 5 hearing, which is where they're deciding whether to expand or reduce the marine protected areas. We've also educated 2,639 students. The pledge drive is super important just because actually being able to say we're student run, student funded, gives us that flexibility to work on campaigns that actually matter without having to worry about strings attached to our funding. That's all I got for you guys today.

E) Acceptance of Agenda

Motion to accept the agenda as amended.

F) Consent Calendar

G) Action Items

A Resolution Condemning Antisemitism

Harter

Luken

- Harter's not here
- Didn't change resolution content
- Just added some student sponsors, myself, Sherkin
- Fixed the formatting

Jiang

- Did AG pascher give approval to keep her name on there because last time she said otherwise?

Luken

- Yes as far as I'm aware

Lala

- Do we want to move onto the next thing while someone checks that?

Motion to amend the agenda and add AS Internal Controls Modernization Proposal.
Luken - Ono
Call to question - Than
This motion passed at 10:45PM.

Luken

- Sohum and his colleague can't come to discuss the proposed architecture for approving the minute, minute approval, and requisition system
- I know that he has reached out to several of you guys but if we are in agreement from this
- If we are in agreement with this, asking for 32,000 from capital improvements because this is fixing an internal, it's a capital improvement project
- Internal
- I think this is a great idea
- Have link to beta, minutes portal they showed us last time
- Texted it to you guys
- Michael and the financial operations team have been in full support of this
- Main impetus behind this

Jiang

- Where did the numbers come from the 32k
- The 32k?

Luken

- There is a budget breakdown
- Literally what it says in here, but then it just has the number next to it

Holly

- Thank you again for the floor
- Do you all mind, I believe this has been either tabled before. This is the second time this is back on the agenda
- Sean and I haven't had the opportunity to review this
- Even though Sean is our interim director
- Still responsible for tech area
- Being able to have his team review the tech being used
- Helpful for his team
- And it's also mine and my staff's responsibility to manage the minutes drive, our team works with the minute takers and document retention, and we haven't had the opportunity to essentially review the portal, the project, the funding, how that's going to impact workflow, because I'll be a person that has to implement this and manage it as well as my staff
- Would like opportunity to review this and chat with senators interested in implementation
- Haven’t met with Michael, who met with former students who worked on this proposal

Luken

- This is the same proposal that was brought during winter quarter
- If you guys want to check back, nothings changed, you guys are free to chime in anytime you want
- I personally love when you guys reach out with comments about comments about legislation or proposals and then too for the Senate
- Not just pass things half hazardly
- We are the policy making and financial decision making body of this association
- We can do whatever we want

Wahidullah

- Also forwarding budget breakdown to senate

Holly

- Yes, you mentioned it was the same proposal last quarter
- During this time I've reached out and have been unable to meet and get our questions answered

- In terms of workflow on back end, you will def be responsible for writing policy but that's what we have to implement
- Even if I have a different opinion there are still some things we have to do
- Just understanding how to do those would be important
- We have been unsuccessful in having a meeting with the parties involved
- I have to implement it
- Even just from that basis
- If you all are interested in hearing feedback from us if you have any
- About what that workflow looks like
- Don't even know where it's housed, that's what we're interested in hearing

Sussman
- Just table this to next week's agenda so we can have discussion

Luken
- Didn't want this passed this week, would appreciate if this was tabled or if we can just pass the funding next week

- If you guys don't know, there is a hold up on this bill, because this program is moving out of EOP. It's a collaboration with EOP to FCRT, which is our financial crisis response team within the Office of Financial Aid. And this is a great and amazing change

- EOP takes like 3 weeks to distribute funds or emergency rent support by moving to financial crisis response team, students can get reimbursement for their like crisis, emergency situation within literally the same day
- Just an amazing thing
- Plan to work on that with them
- Just amending financial language this weekend
- Just want to send it back to committee

Lala
- Want to refer it back to another committee?

Malhis
- Yes

Lala
- Which

Malhis
- Finance because we've sent it already to Vincent and Michael

I-4) President's Cabinet Report-
I-5) Executive Director's Report-

Sean Lierberman 7:22pm
- There's going to be a form that comes out probably tomorrow to everyone to get you into the new microwave financial system so that you can do anything in there and eventually become authorized signers and all that good stuff. That form has been finalized. I think everyone signed off on it tonight. So I think tomorrow, Vincent, or someone from the finops team, will send out an email, and please fill that out as quickly as you can see, we will save some money.
- Speaking of money, we save some money by reducing our storage, off campus storage needs. We went out there to off campus on Hollister, and found that we had like, six storage units for a lot of things, and we didn't need most of them. I think we have two now. So I don't know if anyone knows how storage units work, but they're like, hey, it's gonna be $200 a month. I was like, Oh, that's a lot, but, like, that's not too bad how big it is. And then once you're in there, they increase it a little bit, like every single month, until it's $1,000 and you're just like, well, what am I gonna do with it?

- So that's where we're at with those elections wise, I go to the elections board as one of their advisors. They have a party system that has come back to the constitutional amendment from the last election that passed. So parties are back. The benefit, I think I mentioned this before, but benefit parties being parties generally increase turnout because more people run the process, and those people go out and tell their friends. So there's like a deadline, I think, next week, for declaration of parties. I had some interest in maybe having a plebiscite on the ballot. Someone has come to me to ask about the fact that I didn't even know this word until several years ago.
- But essentially, a plebiscite, which is also really fun to say, I encourage you, is just a non-binding thing on the ballot. That's it. It's just, it's not a fee, it's not a candidate. It is going to ask the question of you, hey, students, do you like cats or dogs better? Right? That kind of thing is a plebiscite that can go on the ballot. We haven't had one in a very long time, but that's something that can happen.
- We've also had groups sponsor a survey that's at the end of the ballot, so after you vote there's a link to something to see how people are doing on a specific issue. Can get into the bike shop and those issues that people want, just ask me full paragraphs here, but if not, I can move on. Speaking of student fees, there's some stuff that maybe is more appropriate for a closed session and talk about the fees that are on our fees that I think maybe isn't something we talked about in the open and in space
- So the admin office, the main office,are all in the process of being revamped in some way. And the kcsb, I don't know how many people are aware that they need to move out of their location along with the Nexus. And it's a sooner rather than later situation. So we are looking into, we have a location that's probably going to be, where they're going to be, but it's a matter of dividing up building space and things like that, and we have no idea how long it'll be. My estimation is, you know, in the years and not the months, but that's just a guess. And this is because historic Plaza communication buildings are just in a state of relative disrepair.
- They need some upgrades, and they have been upgraded in a very long time. And storke tower definitely needs some some passed by it lately.
- So the new chancellor is like, agrees and wants to do something about that. So in the very near future, there'll be some construction on stork tower. So I also don't know when that was. And then the last thing is just always hard to know how to respond to some things when you have partial information. But with retreats, I think I've said this maybe to the previous Senate, but with regards to anyone who comes to ask you or finance committee about a retreat, to ask as many questions as you can, because a retreat cannot simply be a social gathering, right
- Bonding is not an adequate reason for retreat, because then it's just you and your friends out having fun. It has to be an agenda that's the things discussed. Has to be minutes afterwards. That's an educational value. That's like, not just us. That's like UCOP policy, right? That's not just our internal things. So just know that, because we've had groups in the past that have bypassed that, and even if people are approved funding, if you know it violates those things, you might not be reimbursed. So I just want to put that out there, like that, it has to have educational value. Has to be basically a meeting that isn't your normal meeting space. Then there can be bonding stuff as part of it. But it can't be the only reason. Like, it can't be we went to Magic Mountain, okay? And like, no we just went to Magic Mountain. Like, that's not a valid retreat.

- So I just wanted to explicitly say that so that everyone here hears that, and you can spread that to groups that might come ask for funds related to things. Just ask, especially if it's retreats, they need an exception for retreat travel, ask as many questions as you can. Who is going on it. How did you choose who's going on it? Like, what is the educational value of this thing that just looking for responsible use of student fees?

Proxy

- Here, a major question pertaining to the retreat situation. So sometimes we come upon a situation where we have retreats that are religious in basis, the kind of the issue that we find there is, in some ways, you could command that as to be like under the guise of religious studies as a whole. But the question for us begins like, where's that differentiation between like, something that you would like to constitute as like a religious retreat that is still educational in manner.

Sean

- It feels like there is a lot of inherent education value in those retreats
- My example was more seeing retreat as reward to go out and do a thing
- I get it, but trying to get away from that to something that is elsewhere
- I can look into something like that for finance committee

Proxy

- So then how does it go about the same kind of thing with cultural groups on the other hand, like, if we're considering, like the religious things to have inherent, like religious value, then we also have majors on campus that are surrounded around, like cultural studies and things like that.
- So when cultural groups, on the other hand, go on, like, retreats together, how do we differentiate that kind of that as well

- Rcos are a little bit different
- I was mainly talking about AS groups

Holly

- So what I'm hearing also is that there is a differentiation between an event and a retreat. So of course, there can be cultural based or religion based, rcos, or even as groups that host events, and generally the contingency right is that those are open to anyone, and they can be focused on, you know, the cultural experience or the religious experience. And that has been fine as long as it's funded or it is open to all attendees. But what we are sharing is that for retreats, specifically which retreats are limited to the members of the board. So we wouldn't fund a retreat for an RCO. We would primarily fund that for our as groups, because we, we just aren't involved in the funding of leadership development for our RCOs, like we are for our as groups.

- And so the difference between an event and a retreat is that a retreat is going to be closed to the board only, and really even end of year retreats like this could be appropriate even for like, an end of year reflection. So at the end of the year, if you want to sit through and review your budget for the year, if you want to talk about, you know, the goals that you achieve throughout the year, writing transition reports you want to have dinner at a location that's nice, like those are all appropriate, but it really is that they're a as Sean is saying,
- There's an educational purpose behind it, and it's not a social purpose. So it's fine if there are people that like, share a background, share an identity, share an experience, and they happen to be together, but like, the purpose, right?
- The retreat isn't based on that necessarily. It's based on the work of the committee. So for events, it's going to be totally different, right? It's going to be about outreach or education or advocacy, but a retreat really is specifically for our as boards for their work, right? So think about Senate retreats, right? You all take a retreat to do training.
- We can do something at the end of the year where everyone has dinner. You kind of go over your transition report, that's totally fine, but there's like a work purpose to it. So we don't like to be the Fun Police. I really don't like to micromanage what any was doing, trust me, we don't love it.
- We'd love for you all to have fun, but the UC policy is pretty strict about social gathering, so really, that's and we can help you if you have ideas for retreats you want to go on, and we can help kind of shape that programming for you if you want to be sure that what you're doing is compliant with policy. And we're not saying, like, don't have any fun. It needs to be terrible, but that it's education driven, that's all.
- So it's not, I guess. What I'm trying to say is that really the driver isn't going to be whether or not groups that focus on cultural programming or religious programming, if there is an exception for that, because really, regardless of the focus and identity makeup of the group, there is always an education purpose, right? Whether that's advocacy on behalf of the group, whether that's education, whether that's cultural experience, but all of that is kind of the mission of the group.
- So as long as it is founded in that and how that is carried then it you know, it's not going to matter necessarily. If it's one particular advocacy or a religious group like that will be secondary to the primary goal.

Ono

- Is stork tower stable

Sean

- If the stork tower had a problem it would have red flagged tags, everything underneath it. So none of that has happened, yeah. So I think it's just a preemptive Hey, the tower is in a bad state, and hasn't had some hair in a while, and we have a new chancellor, and the new chancellor saw the tower, and probably like that, hasn't seen some, you know, work in a while.
- Let's do this, and let's do it quick, or quickly, start the process quickly. So it's like, I don't believe there's anything to worry about in that regard. I think it's like, hey, there's like, little bits that have fallen off over the past many years, and we need to stop that from happening.
- And this is a big project that needs to happen at some point, like, at some point, like, they're gonna need to fix it. And so that just happens to be, oh, it's gonna happen now. And anyone who works underneath it, directly underneath it, needs to vacate. So it's not like they're running out of the building right now, like we're planning it.

Harter

- Thanks for the update. I was wondering if you had any info on where Nexus and kcsb and any other entities are going to be going or with any ingoing along that,

Sean

- it's just kcsb and the Nexus, because they're the only ones that occupy that building. Kcsp has 60% of it, and the Nexus has both sides there. And we're looking over Embarcadero, and basically it has to be spaces for student affairs, because we don't like to ask other departments for things, but space is very strictly contained.
- we're looking at that, and we're like, working with maps to try to see who can fit where everyone's gonna have to make compromises. That's the downside, because KCSB and Nexus both have a fair bit of space.
- They've been in for 50 plus years, and now it's like you're going to have to be in this much smaller space for a couple years because of the important bill.

Done at 7:35pm

I-6) Executive Office(r)s' Report -

President LeAnh Metzger

- 'm going to start with the executive director, search committee updates, and then we'll do questions. Then I'll move on to the rest of the stuff. So the search committee reviewed 37 applications to the executive director position, and we met together last Friday to discuss them, and we built consensus around the applications and decided that there were 12 candidates who we definitely put in the no interviews category.
- There were 18 candidates who fell into a maybe, maybe not category. We'll go back and maybe the ones we do select did not meet our expectations, and we have seven candidates who we've decided to move forward with a zoom interview. So we'll be conducting these interviews this week and next week. Very exciting. If you would like further information or have questions about the candidates, we can discuss that in closed session.

- But as for next steps, after the interviews are conducted, will be deciding around two to four candidates to move to campus for a whole day of panels of with Associated Students, staff, student affairs, the whole gist, a whole week, a whole day of it
- I'm not just a reminder about confidentially if you guys hear rumors about things, um, not that there are any that going around, but if you happen to hear rumors about like, people or things like, it's not in the best interest of the association to be spreading those because they're very, very likely false. So just keep that in mind.
- But are there any questions about our committee? Okay, next couple things, the quarterly banquet, I sent out the RSVP this afternoon. That's going to be two weeks from yesterday. So Tuesday, Week Six at 5:30pm is just another like professional development as a bonding opportunity for everyone. We'll be having a public speaking workshop with Kathy Groover, who has been on Dr Phil. So strongly encourage you to always make that a priority.
- There'll be free dinner, of course, and potentially an appearance from the chancellor still working on that administration bank goal so make sure to put that in your calendars, and then also to put the state of the association in your calendars for Tuesday, week eight. Again, this is mandatory for all senators. I acknowledge that that is during budget hearings, but it is mandatory. So keep that in mind. It's a really great opportunity to hear all about literally everything, everyone in ass. So those are my last two things.
- Now I'm going to move on to the budget request that I presented last week. I just want to say thank you to Senator Than for meeting with me. We had a productive conversation, and was able to kind of move some things around in the request. So, Holly, could you potentially pull that up again? I can also just bump it to the topical email.
- Thank you. Okay, so the recap from last week, my office's budget is 27,000 and also just a reminder, I did not make this budget request. It was made like in the previous budget cycle when I was not in office, and also the previous president had requested a higher amount for special projects, which was not ultimately approved. And then the current budget status is we've spent operating we're all good in the honoraria, just because of staff expanding. We need an additional 11,300 for the honorary account, and then going into special projects. So it was requested that I send more in depth information about what my office has been up to since summer.
- So I provided that for you all. It has, um, our expenditures up until now, what they went for and how many people they served, some things I'd like to highlight for you all is we, we held an event in a Halloween cookie decorating event in as main and that was a really great opportunity for students who didn't know about as to see like where we work and what we do. There were a lot of freshmen there, so they got really great exposure to as another thing I highlight is our collaboration with ondas for the Real Talk series, which supports first generation students a weekly event, and we supported their activities and food, because they have their programming budget slashed, some other Things, coffee resident, which is something that I have office hours every other week in the in the arbor, I talk to over 100 students, or, like, around, like 80 to 100 students every week, and I tell them about what as is. And I get a lot of people who are very interested. And then, and that last thing I want to highlight program, protect your peers.

- our community response training that we held in pavilion served over 250 people in attendance. This was a mix of students, faculty, staff and community members, but it also featured people like supervisor caps was in attendance, the Associate Vice Chancellor was in attendance, So it was a very successful event that we're hoping to reproduce in the spring quarter as well. So moving on. Also, I realized for those protect your peers events, the money might not add up. It's because we split that with the office of the student advocate. So just there's a note on that.
- Okay, you go to the next one. So this is the amount I requested last week. And then after meeting with Jenny, we were able to kind of move some things around. She helped me find where to move some of these expenditures into MOU requests. So my updated request is $15,000 from Senate unallocated. This will support things such as the mental health Town Hall, which is a mandated event in my office. It also support a lot of collaborations with different groups and another protect your peers, rapid response training and other events that my office would like to hold throughout the year, we were able to find, like, certain events that we want to hold could come from a program or EAB, and then other ones did not have, like, such a clear account to come from, because, like some of those, like mental health events, other groups don't have the budget to just be working like they they want to collaborate, not just take it all on themselves.
- So I believe that my office should be a project for an outreach and event forward group, in addition to my ongoing, long term projects that the office is working on, I believe that I've my office has shown that It's like spent good use of its money so far, and we want to continue our high product productivity for the rest of the year. And then, if you go to the next slide, Holly, last thing I just want to say we were just talking about money spent left unspent, and the association, and that is something that I do not do. So I have a track record of leading offices to fully utilize budget for impactful events and projects. For instance, two years ago in COSWB, I did a very similar as chair of COSWB, I did a very similar request, where I requested a sum for special projects, a lump sum like this, for the remainder of the year, and we were able to use it all, and we allowed us to do impactful things such as overdose prevention week, which has distributed over 2000 Narcan kits to students.
- And then for the following year, Sen approved additional 20,000 in addition to the long number COSWB, and that year, I chaired COSWB, and we spent the entirety of that budget on meaningful projects such as fitness classes, overdose prevention, mental health, for state finals, essentials booth and more. So rest assured, if you guys approve this funding for me, I will make sure it gets used in responsible and meaningful ways. So just a new recap of my funding request. It totals out to 11 on the next slide, it totals out to 11,300 for additional Honoraria and 15,000 for special projects for the rest of the year, for a total of 26,000 and thank you.

Luken

- this is a question of curiosity, not like trying to direct you anyway, but or like trying to lead you to an answer that is, but why do you believe that the President 's role should be more about projects than about acting as the Chief Executive Officer, if you will, of the association and guiding, overseeing all the entertainers that affect not just the association but the student body at large, with administration and things like this. And secondly, how do you balance those two?

President Metzger

- Well, I wouldn't say that one comes at the expense of the other. I again, I have an office of almost 20 staff, and they're the ones doing these projects and events, but they're also doing their I think projects make long term impacts on campus. For instance, my office is working on a project to make the eternal flame more environmentally friendly. Or there's also a project going on for the light tunnel. I also think events are just really important to engage with students and to get our name out there as Associated Students, like every week when I table, or every other week when I table, I am like allowing students to have face time with their student government, which is something that's constantly brought up as an issue.
- didn't know we had a student government. I didn't know there was a student body president. Iit's always brought up as an issue, and I feel like events are the number one way to mitigate that, and then also programming like, protect your peer's week has real impacts in the community, and I say that I don't believe that that comes at an expense of representing the association outside of campus, or like to campus, and then also like leading the Association internally.
- I believe I spend a lot of time doing that. I mean, if we want to talk about representing as on campus, I sit on the UC Council of Presidents, the Academic Senate, faculty legislature, the Campus Planning Committee, the chancellor 's Advisory Committee on the Status of Women, seems to be Housing Coalition, the alumni board, the board of trustees, the campus regulations committee. I was the only Associated Students member at the chief of police candidate panels. I sit on the major events committee, and I meet with upper administration on campus very frequently. And then in terms of internal management, I believe I've done a good job. I run the newsletter, The as Canvas. We have our own entities, contacts and meeting timesheets. I've been running as quarterlies as one. So I would say my time is very well dedicated to those executive hours of the President and at the same time, I don't see that as being enough for myself, my own expectations for myself and my own expectations for my office.

Done at 7:50pm

a. Internal Vice President Lala on meeting with the Chancellor and Save the Student Services petition vote-gathering process inquiries

Casey chief of staff for office of internal vice president

- Hi Senators. My name is Casey, and I'm the Chief of Staff for the office of the internal vice president. And I'm here today to relay some information given to me by the office of Associate Vice Chancellor William Brown regarding the university 's two phase on campus student housing development. Associate Vice Chancellor Brown, who's with the Housing Dining and auxiliary enterprises administrative office, addressed the Senate during fall quarter, at which point he committed to increasing transparency around on campus housing development. He's extremely busy, and therefore IVP Lala and I have decided me best that a member of the association attempt Senate meetings monthly and deliver updates from associate Chancellor brown by Associate Vice Associate Vice Chancellor Brown in his office, I currently serve as the student representative on UCSD administration 's construction mitigation group, which operates under the guidance of AVC brown.
- It's composed of 16 university administrators representing offices including housing dining and auxiliary enterprises, which all henceforth refer to just as have, university and community housing services, as well as other student life related admin departments, the two student representatives are myself on behalf of Associated Students and the RHA president, resident Housing Association president, the instructional mitigation group oversees these new housing projects on campus, sponsored by the university where and works to mitigate disruptions for students during construction.
- So last Thursday, I attended my first former meeting with the construction vacation group, and in response to a few center 's requests for there being a consistent and reliable line of communication from administration to student leadership regarding these housing projects, I'm here today to share these updates on the two phases of the housing project, the former being San Benito, and the latter being the East Campus project. So I'll begin by briefly discussing phase one, which is San Benito. It is predicted to add over 3500 new undergraduate student batting system campuses. It's located in the lot across from you, the UCPD office in the fire station, next to Harter Stadium, which I'm sure everyone if they've driven on Henry T Yang drive, they've been able to see the construction process happening there. So it's obviously currently in the construction phase.
- It's scheduled to open in the fall of 2027 and it'll provide the campus with apartment configurations, style living, including four bedroom units, two bedroom units and studio apartments. It'll be arranged as a series of towers with common areas, so definitely more of an apartment style living. And it'll have a retail dining market similar to Tenaya market that's for second, third and fourth year undergraduate students. Something that might be of interest to student leaders is HDA is currently scheduling tours of the Sen Dunn apartment mockups, which are located near where they did the mock up of all during February, March of this year.

- They're going to have various campus partners, staff and student organizations, including myself and IVP Lala. We're going to visit the mock apartments as well as the construction and now for the East Campus project. This is something that's going to obviously impact students much more directly because it's located over by the Channel Island five residence halls. It is going to be built on the grounds of the current Santa Rosa residence hall, lot two, which is the lot in between the shorty dormitories, and is also going to knock down Ortega and rebuild in that spot there. It's going to add 1276 new beds to campus. And this doesn't account for the 500 beds that are going to be removed during the demolition of Santa Rosa and then, obviously added to the 1276 beds coming with the East Campus project.
- So the planning began in spring of 2024 and the regents just approved the project in November of 2025 and Hae is bringing the project in their postal commission at the earliest in April of 2026 demolition of Santa Rosa is scheduled to occur during summer of 2026 with construction starting during the fall 2026 quarter. It's scheduled to be completed in time for fall of 2028 there's a lot to note. It's clear that the project will require the most attention from construct the construction mitigation group, because anyone living in the Channel Island five dormitories, anyone who attends classes in the ILP or CCS, as well as individuals working on the construction project for the ILP bike path, and people who need a DlG or Ortega, are going to be directly impacted by the construction.
- So my main concern when I was talking to Hga you was making sure that they were taking not just staff concerns into account, but also taking students' concerns into account. They seem to be very aware that the project is going to cause significant disruptions, and they claim to have already contacted the administrative staff regarding the disruptions that it's going to cause. They sent them a memo in December that outlined parking and safety concerns, as well as relocation of certain administrative operation offices, which I don't think is of much interest to the student body, but I have the information if anyone needs that. And then one thing that they are relocating that is going to matter for students is they're relocating Ortega to Ana cap a lawn just for the 2026 through 2027 school year.
- And it's going to run out of a sort of tent, pseudo dining hall situation, but that. And then they're thinking about moving housing, dining and auxiliary enterprises, which runs like out of the back of DlG, sort of, to lot five, which is by Sen Nick residence hall, and the Coastal Commission is not so fond of that. I so that's Yeah. So my hope is that having myself and the RHA president on the team is going to increase their understanding of student opinion so they can release a similar statement to the student population, especially like the incoming class, they'll be the class of 2032, I so as of now, HDA has taken Santa Rosa down from the housing website, so future students don't see that as an option for housing, and they're going to be sharing apparently comprehensive information about the East Campus project during open house on April 11, the some big changes for the incoming class is that they're not going to have the opportunity to self assign their dorms.

- As far as I understand, they're going to be able to still pick their roommates, and yes, they'll be roommates, plural, because there's going to be heavily trip heavily tripled rooms because of the removal of 500 beds from Santa Rosa, particularly the other like chi five dormitories are going to be highly tripled and less so Santa Catalina, Manzanita San Raff and then there are AJ saying that later in the spring, after housing contracts have come out, um, they're going to send like, an official Notice to everyone who got assigned to the Chi five buildings, basically explaining the reality of the situation that they're going to be living in a construction site. So I'm interested to hear what other students have to say about that they're also giving admissions counselors a lot of information, because apparently, more students than ever, prospective students, have been calling the admissions office to ask about student life, and so they're thinking about having the admissions counselors give that information. I'm not sure if I have anything else. Anyone has any questions?
- I have additional information about, like, what's happening with staff and like RHA, but resident directors, Assistant resident director, etc. But yeah, thank you, Casey.

Internal Vice President Lala

- I appreciate you being here with valuable information. Just two quick notes. So Casey sits on the mitigation group, which is headed by the Associate Vice Chancellor, and there's a bunch of other stakeholders on there. This was not associated with the Office of the Vice Chancellor. We're not like working obviously, completely separate institutions, so you're bringing very valuable information.
- But it's not like representing the AVC in any you know, like concrete capacity, obviously. And I just checked, because I think the initial advertised total bed amount for Santa Maria was 3500 and as these things do, they just kind of drop off one advertisement after another. I thought it was 2500 and the latest thing reports it'll be 2140 which is 2140 more than there are currently. But it's something we want to keep in mind and keep track of the figures as closely as possible.

Ono

- Sounds like next year will be miserable
- They are blowing up ortega
- It's going to be temporarily relocated to anacapa lawn?
- Is that existing space being demolished

Casey

- They are demolishing santa rosa and ortega and creating tower style residence halls

Ono

- Is ortega also going to be a resident hall ?

Casey

- It's going to be resident halls. And then the first is going to be, yes, like apartment style residence halls for second, third and fourth year students, to give them an opportunity to be like in the main para campus. And then the bottom floor is going to be Ortega, that's open

Ono
- So that lot where ortega is is also towers

- As far as the information I got in the most recent construction mitigation meeting, I was under the impression that it's like two buildings in Santa Rosa space, one in lot two, and then one in Ortega 's space, okay, but it hasn't been like, approved by Coastal Commission yet, so there's obviously still room for

Lala
- Two in santa rosa and one in lot 2 and one on ortegas property

Sussman
- So the Associate Vice Chancellor, Vice Chancellor, last time he came in, said that this is essentially playing catch up for not building for, oh, so many years. So are they discussing what's next after these sites are built? Well, when we're in Target midlife crises. But are there next steps after San Benito and South Campus, East Campus.

Kasey
- I haven't heard of anything

Geosimonian
- If you don’t know the exact answers that is alright, but do you know the plan for when these high rises will be finished

Kasey
- So San Benito, which is the one by UCPD, is going to be finished for the incoming class starting in 2027 and then East Campus should be finished for the class of
- I just know that I have the numbers that I was given. Enri had some different numbers just now.
- They're supposed to add 3500 beds in between the two projects. And San Benito is supposed to be 2224 so the remainder would be this East Campus

- 7800 square feet

Wahidullah
- Thank you again, Casey, for coming here today. Also, I believe you already briefly touched on in particular
- But tying back, and particularly to what you mentioned about, about the pop ups for the temporarily, oh space of the Ortega particularly, can you expand, if you have any knowledge about a favorite of like pertaining towards, maybe of the potential health concerns or particular concerns that comes of maybe making a pop up potential space instead of a permanent I feel like enclosure when it comes to creating, I feel like food, equitable needs, and have they discussed about that? Or you have any knowledge about that?

Casey

- I definitely have limited knowledge about that. I know as someone personally who has a severe food allergy, I definitely brought up the concern of having like, cross contamination, especially having it be in open air. I mean, I have celiac disease, so flowers flying everywhere was concerning me, and they said they're going to do their best to take those necessary precautions, but I actually don't have any, like, due days, but I'm concerned about it.

Sherkin

- Hi Casey, good to see you. I was just wondering, from an as perspective, do you think it would be helpful to provide like, accurate messaging to students about this process coming up. Because I know, like, people are applying for housing. Well, I think that period actually just closed. But you know, in the dorms, maybe we could have some messaging about what this is going to look like, because the dorm process is going to look different coming soon. Maybe that can be, just be like, infographics or stuff like that. I just think, I know we've talked about this a little bit, but now that you have a little bit more information, do you think from our end, like we could be helpful in providing messaging about this process? Because I understand, you know, as an incoming student, it might be really confusing, and if you're already in the dorm, so you're trying to apply for housing again, it can also be confusing,

casey

- yes, so I know that for they are making like exceptions for current first year students who are going to be second years, who are continuing to do university housing contracts in that they're allowing, normally, second years aren't allowed to sign on for apartment style living, but they're going to be allowed to do that next year around 300 to 400 of them are going to be allowed to sign into the or sign on to deal leases with the apartments, the off campus, but campus owned apartments, as far as providing information to current first years, I do believe the like housing reapplication has closed, and I'm really not sure how much information that HDA wants to give to the general student population. At this point, they are releasing info about San Benito the day after the Super Bowl, and then they're saying that they're going to start releasing information about East Campus in spring. But as of right now, because they haven't gotten approval from the Coastal Commission, there's like waiting on the side of caution.

Chairship yield at 8:07PM

- I was going to speak on the conversation for the Chancellor and the petition thing, but we spoke about the petition thing, so I'll stick to the chancellor conversation. So the main reason was something that the as representative to the student fee Advisory Committee, which I appoint. His name is Tyler. He's been here before and has spoken about and is the push to secure voting rights on the student fee Advisory Commission, which I'll call as back from Ellen for both our Undergraduate Association and the Graduate Students Association, which is currently not the case, in complete divergence from most other UC campuses at UC LA, if I'm not mistaken, for example, the Undergraduate Student Government appoints all of the undergraduate representatives
- Whereas we just have someone sit there and in previous years completely underutilized because there's no incentive to be present if you do not vote, we also have the really unique structure of there being two faculty and two staff members who are voting members, and the Undergraduate and Graduate Student Association representatives are not so we had some initial conversations with the co chairs and some members of the Commission on this throughout the term, they had some logistical issues which we completely believe are solvable and it imposes no other no financial burden whatsoever on the going to Be good cert positions which are paid for by, in our case, it's a position paid for by as and for the Graduate Student Association, it would be an already elected position most likely.
- So we spoke to the chancellor about it, because it's that the advisory part, it advises the chancellor, and the Chancellor can revise the charter of ASB whenever he so pleases within reason and through the you know, invaluable help of the Vice Chancellor of Student Affairs, Mike Miller, who has really stepped in for any major projects students have brought to him this term. And I really want to shout him out whenever I can on that we got to meet the chancellor present this as what it is, as an issue of fairness, of representation and of democratic legitimacy, because as it stands, the committee selects who's on the committee, and it perpetuates on and on with some kind of rubber standing stamping by the Chancellor.
- But obviously, having elected representatives who decide some of the voting representations for both the undergraduate and graduate level is extremely important to us. So that's one part of it. I would love to answer any questions on that. Secondly, the chancellor is concerned about this is something I'm not intimately familiar with, but to bring out there, especially for seniors, is interested in bringing a sort of a whole campus commencement ceremony at the chemistry law and if I'm not mistaken, which is probably the broadest space available. So you keep your own colleges or departments graduation, and there's also a commencement ceremony for everyone there, and they need to determine some details on that.
- Myself and the other executives will be meeting with the chancellor on Monday to hear his proposal and give our thoughts. Personally, I think it's pretty cool, but I would love to hear your thoughts on it so I can report to him, especially if you're a senior. And the two other ones are sort of big picture and long term. But some things I really, really want you to keep in mind if you're not graduating and if you will remain in this exhausting but invaluable work of student leadership. The first is something that most students missed in the announcement of, you know, the purchase of a new house for the chancellor, which people were understandably nothing else thrilled about. But one aspect in there was that in the current what's called the centennial house, which celebrated the founding of the UC system, and it was built in the 60s as the chancellor 's residence. And as you might know, it's right across from Santa Cruz, right home from from Santa Cruz Hall, right by campus point. So in short, just prime, prime real estate on campus, where you can get to classes in a matter of minutes.

- You can get to the beach in a matter of minutes. And obviously it's just one story, which was being used by a couple or for the last 60 years or so. In that message, it was indicated that the plan of the campus is to develop this into student housing going forward. And this is something that we don't want to just remain as messaging that was once out there, and the students forgot about if there's anything to dedicate your advocacy efforts to in the next three or four years, as I see it, what better thing than this than providing fence housing on campus, you know, and directing students away from the vultures, and I love Vista, towards something that will actually care about their well being whatsoever. So I'd love to engage in conversations about that.
- Of course, this remains in the grand scheme, and the chancellor was receptive to this, which was really great news. So of course, it's going to take a while to look past that on to the next step when it's that expensive, but the more student pressure, the better, trust me. And the second is something I've been discussing with VCSA Miller a lot, and we also brought up to the chancellor, is this idea of an SRB two point out. So the SRB is pretty cool, provides a lot of services, but there are quite a few entities on campus which their ceilings are, unfortunately either collapsing or on the brink of it or having significant issues in one way or another.
- They're not doing well to put it shortly, and that's a site. And I also believe there are some other ones closer, like right at the center of campus, which can be removed in the short term and be replaced by something like a six, seven or eight story building, which houses what is already existing in there. They will be in the same space and also provide space for all the facilities, you know, the regular student departments which need to be there. And also something I've spoken extensively to Senator Luken and Sussman about, and I believe Senator Harter as well, is this idea of providing a space on campus for our CEO 's to hold on a consistent basis.
- So I know there are many which would really benefit from, from a location on campus. So I was part of the philosophy debate scene for much of my time here, and we just happened to use the room that the philosophy department owns, like just completely, just got lucky, basically, and that allowed us to achieve success that we otherwise would not have had access to whatsoever, especially if you're in engineering or anything physical, you know there are, there are people doing little rocket science on this campus, and they're doing this in some dude 's living room because there's nowhere else to do it. And that's a hazard in more ways than once. So I think that's something worth investing in. And there are significant funds.

- We're not the only entity accruing rollover on this campus, basically. And a part of the SBAC conversation was not only our voting rights, but also expanding the portfolio that SBAC can act on. It's only about 300,000 of several million in rollover. I'm forgetting the exact figure, but that could be expanded, and that could be put into one major capital project, namely this to provide more space to campus departments, and hopefully also our CEOs. And if you just chance upon the chancellor at some point, I would appreciate you putting your voice in and saying that this is something we want to invest in. And this would also be great for the chancellor 's introduction to campus, like first year we got this really major project going. So yeah, those are the major things, maybe not the most immediately actionable, but I think we should invest more and more of our time on the big picture, long term things that our terms will be remembered for. So

- I agree, extensive space is much necessary, just from all the previous reports that we were communicating about. Instead, I just want to hear because you touched a little bit, particularly about the reconstruction, about some particular entities and spaces into just removal, into a particular reconstruction towards them based on your current particular progress and your timeline to these said projects you mentioned about. Have you communicated to set entities yet, or have you kind of been in the communication of collaboration yet or mutualism when it comes to finding a middle ground?

Lala

- So this, this remains very much like a but I think it was a John stage, like we're imagining and dreaming. Phil, this is not something immediately actionable. The closest thing to it is for 434, you know, the people who are currently working there are much more aware of how untenable their working situation is than we are. So I don't think they would be.
- I mean, obviously the relocation process is immensely difficult, but it's not like they're not aware of this. On the other site, there has been no communication so far. But I think the thing to invest in, it's somewhat analogous to the bike project, right? We want to get the conversation going first. We want to get student consensus behind it, and then invest in some plans. Invest in, you know, the motion for the funding passing, or whatever, and as could have some role in that. With limited communication, expand that as far as I can, until mid May the end of my term, and then I'm out here.

Harter

- So President Metzger appointed me to the campus building committee. So I'm on that committee, right? Yeah. So basically, the way it works, long story short, is we need to come with a proposal, and we need to express interest, and we probably have to, if it's something that, as is actually concerned with, then we are going to have to be the ones to probably fund that proposal. So that's the way it works. Long like that's a very, very long story short. But if that's something that you guys are interested in, which I obviously am, because I'm on the committee, and I've been, I've been bringing this up, that's, that's what we have to do, basically, is, if we're very interested in this, not just like that, that is an action item, essentially.

Lala

- Remember we had some very similar ideas on what could be done at the center of campus, which I'm really encouraged by that you're sitting all there. And I mean, Sean, if you could fill in the year this happened. But the SRB is a recent development, like it was not there long ago.

Sean Lieberman

- 2014-2015

Lala

- It was led by campus administration?

Sean

- Yes

Lala

- So they do have some funds, I think absolutely yes, you have a stake in it, maybe even in full heart of it, like on a they build an apartment building and you own certain sections of it, and you maybe load out to our CEO 's, or maybe certain entities would need that extra space. I was slightly disagreeing that it needs to be just us. I think the best way to sort of sublimate the cooperation we've built with campus administration this term, especially with the VCSA, is to have something concrete that we've tackled together. This would be just an amazing channel to for that cooperation, but I agree that we should be a major part of the of the development and

Jiang

- I actually had received feedback from our RCOs 's regarding, like, storage space, particularly if you consider it as fun a lot like non-perishable goods to like our RCOs's when they want to return as they literally have no way to return to. So it's kind of just throwing out my money for that, and I've been brought up by one of a staff member and mentioning that we do have, like, a regular, like school like, I'm totally on board with the idea of, like, like, expanding spaces and now and everything, but that's gonna take way longer, and probably we're gonna see it at all.
- But I did get information there. Do you guys know about the red house that was in the bus loop that was, like, really big, and nobody really knows what it's for apparel? Yeah, I know what you're talking about. Yes. Okay, don't think there are gyms unless I'm mistaken. But my information told me that it's basically a storage space for campus whenever they're doing like, re innovation, or like, read, like, you know, decoration, or whatever of the buildings, and then to move all those things to the storage space. So I'm wondering if it's possible that you propose to Chancellor that potentially, when it's empty, that it can, sort of, like, make us to use it tentatively, you know, since it's already it's pretty like, empty most times, unless, like, there's campus, like, going around.

Lala

- Let’s talk about that

Luken

- Thank you for your presentation. Alongside building new spaces for things like RCO 's and existing entities, what do you think of including in these new spaces, or alternatively finding existing spaces to create for the assoc Association, enterprise units, if essentially business units that can generate revenue for the association.

Lala

- I mean, that's one of the most important concerns we have as an association. As you know, this is not something I've been the most invested in or know the most about, but I know it's something Sean has been, has been thinking about and working towards for years.
- I mean, you know, the addition of new spaces could make that much easier to operate. I know we've also talked about maybe bringing in certain vendors on campus or which is difficult because you don't want to be with the few who are already here.

Luken

- What your thoughts on when that would be
- Is there a necessity for that or a hope and dream for us

Lala

- But again, I want to encourage everyone to be involved as much as possible in housing advocacy stuff. I know it feels really big and like, what can I as a student nudge towards this? But I was doing this kind of stuff as a freshman, and you see, like, direct impacts the moment just a single student steps in. So if you organize and you care about the housing stuff, you make that clear. It trusts me. It pays off. And I think we want to move on this as quickly as possible, like, or the chance I would be down for it to be called assoc residence hall, if they, if they build in the next two years, like, we really want to put the incentive behind it as much as possible, and it's something we should have done. Thank you very much for your time.

Sean Lieberman

- And one thing about seemingly empty space is that even if the space is temporarily empty, some department controls that and will likely swoop down to protect it with their father. So the red barn, for example, has historically, in the past 1015, years, maybe it's like art studio space, yeah. So there's our students and things in there. There was, but they all post store stuff in there too. And there was a 434, storage that was used in or when they redid the library. So it was like, oh, maybe we can get this space because it's just a bunch of, like, bookshelves and things. And I lobbied for it, and Letters and Science said no and kicked us out of that. So, we've tried, but like, keep trying, because the university owns so much land and property, and it can't be, like, West Campus and everything over there, and they like, there's a lot of things that they're in control of that maybe are being underutilized. So yeah,

Chairship yielded back to Lala at 8:23pm

Lala

- West campus is a big unexplored frontier

(9:51PM)
Paul Siripintu

- Couple of weeks ago, we got a request to do a fiscal audit from internal vice president Lala in that request five items that he asked in my office, which means Paul, because he knows math
- Cover some issues.
- I'll be sending out a brief letter to summarize the outline
- I'll talk about how he went through and collected
- Before we move into detail just want to set up a framing of why we do it
- There's allusion to whether we talk about this public and I think as we look forward with this report, and kind of what we found, which was kind of going over the amount spent on honoraria for each BCU, how much money is inherently inward facing?
- That's spent on the own BCU operations versus being directly returned to students in a meaningful capacity. These things are very hard to determine. In some sense, we're working with rough figures.
- They're precise because financial operations does a good job, but they're also rough in terms of, you know, if we look at, you know, Senate zone budget or the IVP office, it's on honoraria and on internal expenses. But the work that's being done is for everybody. I didn't want to just say put out a list of 10 BCUs which are spending on honoraria, because I think this is misleading, what this data will be useful for is AS Finance Committee, which I happily sit on as we go into the budget cycle, as Senate goes to approve stuff as as a body, and I've had processes about kind of what the Association should look like from the composition of BCU is what their functions should be.
- I think that's all important. I'm happy to be involved in that. This report is descriptive, not inherently evaluated in the sense, but just not telling you what to do, just kind of giving a lot.
- So I'll briefly kind of read from the IVPs request that I'll have Paul kind of talk about what we did, and then be able to share with you guys just the sheets themselves and take questions.
- So first was a request for annual operating budget for each board commission unit, including the percentage allocated to honoraria and other funds not directly returning to the same body. Second, summary of expenditure from past fiscal year we did the past in terms of where that money is going. Third, anonymized overview of spending on internal purposes, sort of food or travel conferences, similar kind of chances for that is the overall percentage of money which is being returned to students in a tangible manner. We had some of these things, so subjective. And the fifth point, which our office declined to do, because, I think it's slightly outside scope, and it requires a lot more fidelity is in terms of concrete as possible, how widely and easily available these services have been made by the system body.

- This includes availability of services of events, but also whether entities consider financial requests from other entities, RCOs, individual students. I want to say a brief word on that point. That's something that we're admitting from the reporter, rather choosing not to respond to and it's sort of pressed that I do think that's an interesting question
- I think there's work to be done to make the association accessible and make sure that the boards are filling their responsibility. I know we have these kind of conversations, and finance committees in terms of how it's being used, which money is most available to students, and making it say finance committees are the only place people can go for money.
- If they're aware they can go to other BCU, use and receive money in this way.
- Right now, I think it seems clear that the other BCUs, without getting too into it, seem to be more closed off.
- I think we don't want to evaluate that here today, in the sense of they're not able, but where's say, outreach's responsibility in terms of making this kind of thing
- Those are my series of apostrophesic asterisks before looking at this data
- Should I send out the sheets and just like, send it email real quick? We always kind of take this, and if you can send it to me, we can add it to the agenda as well, I'll give you guys something like more substantial later
- Those are my series of apostrophes, asterisks before looking at this data
- Will send out these sheets to senate data

Motion to extend the speaker's time by 5 minutes.
Sussman - Ly
Call to question - GeoSimonian
This motion passed at 9:59PM.

- Purpose is to say this is what you're going to be receiving
- Just kind of going to give a heads up

Lala
- It says file in owner's trash

Speaker
- Just updated that

Speaker #2
- Worked with Michael and Aryan to do this project
- For first requirement, asking how much of budget for 2025 was allocated for honoraria

- On sheet 6 you can see we've summarized what percentage has been allocated towards honoraria
- The percentage that isn't returning to student body
- As well as how much is in their rollover and total student return

Speaker #1
- Logic thing there is how we flagged which are internal and external

Speaker #2
- Sometimes things will have all zeros because I didn't believe they were having things returned to the student body
- The sheet labeled 2 and 3 that was for the last budget for 2024 to 2025
- You'll see the internal amount spent
- For what categories each was for
- Some redundancies, was advised by Aryan to keep it as is
- Food purchases, 7,001, generally used by all BCUs
- Some BCUs used their own subcategory for food expense
- Advised by Aryan to keep it separate
- Get a better idea of what amounts are being spent for each category
- For the 4th sheet is 3 years of what is being spent
- Externally and the percentages as well
- 2025-26, 24-25, 23-24

Sussman
- How do you recommend that we go about looking at this? Because this is quite a lot of data, especially for non math or majors

Speaker #2
- For most of them, I've given a summary
- If you go to sheet 6, you can filter out and see what percentage each BCU is contributing to their honoraria, filter icon you can press
- Can change from most to least or least to most
- We've established a designated sheet so you'll be able to view the expenses in a convenient way

Sussman
- Was there anything in this data that you flagged as concerning?

CCO Rosales
- Ongoing conversation about the amount of money in rollover accounts
- As we consider what that means in terms of having money taken from students,
- What we do with that is interesting
- We have a lot of BCUs that are inactive or don't have chairs or boards
- In my mind two ways to go
- Staying idle isn't a good idea

- Without their position being filled
- If we can't fill those positions, it might be something that shouldn't exist
- Not to say that whoever that BCU was created for, that it's not a good purpose
- Were not judging it on the mission
- But for legal code and BCUs not going their original intention, it's better for AS to cut down on what they're doing so they're more effective
- Suggest going through those figures and saying which turn out and evaluations
- Kind of evaluating who that group serves

Wahidullah
- Very valuable research
- More of an extension than question
- Feel like there's a lot of cross communication
- Liaison committee, were also trying to do communication and lobbies
- Similar columns of data
- We're evaluating from our own research
- If you'd be open to coming to our meetings, having conversations

CCO Rosales
- I think that'd be a valuable reaction to have
- It's important to bring the BCUs as well
- We talked to a lot of them at finance committee and they recognize they have too much money
- You get a mixed reaction
- In terms of the attitude and how senate approves rollover

Sussman
- I'm very upset at some rollover rates
- How do we prevent this from happening?
- What could we do by the end of our term?
- To put a bandaid on this

Rosales
- In terms of speaking to history I decline to comment on that point
- In terms of what can be done, can be more
- In terms of the non lock in BCUs and money being appropriated to sit stagnant
- I think there's an opportunity there to get an effort to get those spots filled
- Give that they are not lock ins and it is in the Senate's power to shut them out
- If we look years back and see some patterns
- If we talk about what we wanna do with BCUs and all this money, perhaps creating a system where students can decide
- They can affirm whether or nor they want certain BCUs in existence
- As we see on finance committee, many fabulous RCOs which cover some kind of ground

- To have those kind of services and ran through student clubs which are active and engaged
- Maybe some BCUs aren't as necessary as we think they were, and maybe they were very effective when they first began, but if they're not effective now, you do put up with two just like two choices.

Holly Dunn
- Wanted to comment on audit in general
- Not commenting on the value of it
- Just wanted to remind you all that fiscal year for last year 24-25
- Has not yet closed so
- As you’re evaluating these numbers, keep in mind they’re probably gonna change
- Financial operations is working through back log of requisitions last year
- Students don't know final expenditure, which impacts their knowledge of honoraria, which will impact your assessment of this fiscal year
- Pretty impactful to groups
- They don't know how much money they spent last year because the final numbers haven't been finalized, and because of the transition to Microix, our student groups also don't have access to their current expenditure reports.
- They don't know how much rollover they’re actually received
- They don't have access to their current expenditure reports
- Wont say generally how close they’ll be
- Don't have hands in the paperwork of all these
- Something that our advisors don’t know, our financial operations team doesn't know
- Our BCU leadership don't know the accurate numbers
- They don't know accurate numbers of final fiscal close for last year
- Started july 1st 2025
- That probably is going to impact the budget cyle
- Because they’re student groups and budget packets, they’ve shared that that’s not accurate to budget they’re received
- Their books haven't closed for last year
- For this specifically, if we can keep in mind the numbers also aren't going to be exactly what they re

CCO Rosales
- Yes, whatever figures we have here are incomplete

Holly Dunn
- Yes and it’s also not a fault of your doing
- It’s not that your office miscalculated
- We literally just don’t have the information
- They’re just not precisely accurate
- Just is what it is

I-7) Senator Representative Reports-
Manala (9:49PM)

- Good evening to the 76th body of the Senate, to members of the public and staff
- It is with a heavy heart that I come before you today sending out my resignation. It's a fact that is beyond my control. At this moment, I've sincerely enjoyed working with all of you. The role you play in advocating for justice and representation of the general student body is really inspirational, and I'll cherish the time I spent here and take the lessons I've learned at UCSB into whatever role I go into in the future. So with that being said, thank you guys for being hospitable and for a really dynamic working environment in which we pursue the common goal of helping people as well. Thank you, guys.

Lala

- You're a good man, good friend, glad you joined us

Motion to unanimously consent to move into Item I6.
Passed via unanimous consent at 9:50PM.

I-8) Administrative Reports-

Attorney General Pascher

- So I see that this is the agenda of constitutional amendments. So I just like to remind you all that that's a two thirds majority or two thirds vote from you also that is to go through whenever I believe you guys are going to table it before. But just to keep that in mind, I would like to remind you all to read the enacting clauses and how we had a conversation, as in, sorry, as how the legislative body had a conversation about presiding versus the president of the Senate. So just keep that in mind and kind of refresh your memories on what that means. So that's that number two is an agenda item. There is no access to assessment, to build, update elections code, to meet elections board requests.
- So in the interest of transparency, I recommend that you guys table that to next week, because, well, none of you have been able to see any of that, so I don't know how you would make a decision on tabling it if you haven't been able to read it. And so just in the interest of transparency, I would recommend that you table it, or I don't know if you want to open that up now, yeah, that's at your discretion. Just to make you guys aware of that, I have been looking into the Senator's absence stuff, I have decided to recommend to you all that you request an advisory opinion from JC.
- I know that was on one of the agenda 's last quarter. And so if you guys want to move anywhere with that, I would suggest putting an advisory opinion on the agenda and request that from JC, however, one of my stipulations would be to include what that means for executive officers. You know, this is asking whether or not senators can remove any elected official. An executive is an elected official. So I'd like to know what JC says about that. That's so that would be good for you guys, if you're interested in moving forward with removing senators, or really just understanding how to do that on the fees thing. So I know that's been on our radar.

- I actually choosing to do that for one of my classes, a research project into that, and potentially, you know, getting something published on the fees. So I will have something for you guys by next week that encompasses, hopefully, the entire situation. Because I know it's really confusing. It's confusing for me, but some things that I'm hoping to include are fact checking that the consumer price index, bureau of land, labor statistics, inflation calculation that they did is correct. I don't doubt that it is, but I do think that that needs a check, so I'll be making sure that that's all good. I want to inquire about the 2006 EOP policy that was just mentioned, and why that is a thing. Me, personally, just it's not really quite making sense why students are paying tuition or a fee to then be given back to them.
- To me, that kind of buys out the middle class UCSD students to help the lower class award when it should just be the university. They're getting money from the government. I don't understand how that, how that came into play, and then inquiring about the ballot campaign policy, I myself have gone up to them and asked if they're on the clock. Many of them are on the clock. They're being paid to collect signatures, which I think is grossly a gross misuse of paid time that is quite appalling. That is super disappointing to hear. I'm quite upset about that. I think that we are constantly hiring and creating new positions in the UC system and at the same time asking for student fees to be increased. So my opinion is just something for you guys to look out for. I know that you guys are busy, so I don't know if you necessarily want to take that off your radar. I can pick up the pieces on that. So last meeting, oh, actually, before we go into that, I just briefly have been looking at the table that they suggested for the fees.
- Our current fees per quarter, according to this 18 that they have proposed is 5988 with the proposed increase, if all of them were to pass, it would be 177 10. That is 195% increase per quarter. So food for thought, this is a serious, serious thing. I try not to go for, like the super shiny things, but I think that this is something that is super shiny and honestly, quite embarrassing to be asking of students right now, $34 of that is the return to aid stuff
- . So that is quite a big chunk of it. Also one of the fees that they're aiming to increase is called the Community Volunteer Foundation, which, as I understand it, is simply in place to fund things. It's just a volunteer foundation that seeks to enhance the educational experience of UCSD students by XYZ. All they really do is, as I understand it, give out money. So we're paying into it, and they're just giving out money. Very, very disappointing, if that's what it is, I'll have to do more research and I'll report back to you, but I would really appreciate it if you guys, like went line by line and helped me out. Also, if you have anything that you feel like I should be looking into on that, please let me know, because I surely cannot be exhaustive in what I can think to, you know, check so there's a lot of corners or a lot of land to cover there.

- All right. Now, moving on from fees, I have the question of, does the Accepting of the agenda have to occur at the end of the meeting? I am under the impression that it does per Robert 's rules. Let's see. I think it's section 41 paragraph 63 after an agenda has been adopted by the Assembly, no change can be made except by a two thirds vote, a vote of the majority of the entire membership, or unanimous consent.
- So, I mean, just logically, that kind of makes sense, right? You can't accept the agenda and then add things to the agenda. That's, I think, the opposite reason of why that's there. So I know you guys are coming up with a new agenda for next week per building PW code. I think that it would be wise if you guys started doing that at the end of the meeting. It's kind of a check, as I see it. And so in the event that you guys do accept the agenda and try to amend it, you should be getting at that point two thirds vote to amend the agenda instead of just majority.

Lala

- Two quick things we do accept at the very end of the meeting, I think, without exception, right before adjournment. At least that's the practice. Or maybe the only thing between that and adjournment could be minutes and allocations, which, like by definition, has to be unanimous. So I don't think there's ever been an instance of anything passing below a two thirds threshold, but I appreciate the reminder like that should absolutely remain at the very end of the meeting. If there are entities which accept the agenda, like the first thing, which I never thought made sense. So I think your intuition is completely right.

Attorney General

- I will say I believe last meeting agenda was accepted right before meeting adjourned

Lala

- I did the table thing exactly as you did
- I came to the same conclusion that it was 170% and i asked associate vice chancellor perkin and she clarified it would be $40 per quarter

Attorney General

- So with inflation catching up. They apparently also have to include the return to aid and then an additional administrative assessment. So those two are, for some reason, latching on to the inflation catch up, which I don't know what that's all about. The way that I read it is that it is for new fees. These are just catching the fees up. I don't think that there are new fees. I'm looking into it. It might not have to be there. I hope it doesn't have to be there, because I would be honestly, completely okay with a $36 increase to adjust for inflation. That makes sense. But throwing on another $50 on top of that is it seems shady, especially when you're when your campaign is to save Student Services, when more than half of it isn't even going to saving student services going elsewhere. It's really frustratingly

Sean Lieberman

- I think it would be a closed session. I can talk. We don't have control over that, right? And so hoisted upon us. But I can give you more detail.

Attorney General

- It says new fees but im looking into it Than

Sean

- So okay, so we have an MOU with campus regarding return to aid administrative fees before a certain time. But anytime a fee is increased, they will assess it on that new amount. So if you never change your fee, you're good, you have to feel like with the old numbers, if you dare to change it a little bit, then you're hit with more return date and more administrative assessment. So that's what all those numbers are.

Than

- regarding the community volunteer foundation, is that the one under AS

Attorney general

- This is very preliminary my research

Than

- Okay, so context for this, this is a bcu that has, if I looked at the finance committee that has $100,000 the last finance committee meeting says this is the estimated budget that has. And I believe the last time I checked, they have no board. So my question would be, do you think we can dissolve that? And why are they raising the fee for it, since it hasn't been active in around two to three years?

Wahidullah

- You pass it for some particular notes. I was going to mention about similar things and mentioned about, but if you could also just provide, maybe we touched about previously, earlier, towards just like your office researching a particular entities that are, you know, requesting people and are getting paid when it comes to looking on the particular position stuff, if there's any way you could extend further on some particular research to see if there's a causation or correlational between, like, maybe Senator entities that are paying particular entities for their student services, if they're in comparison to the other places that like to the ones that are paying their particular entities to go out for student services, if you can see and kind of get more detail of said entities, and maybe have a causa, like a correlation between, like the ones you mentioned about the actual student fees, but like the ones that have higher purchasing a particular to the ones that are actually requesting that, because you're mentioning about the Sen of people on the student fees are even tying towards the ones that are particularly requesting towards them.

Attorney general

- So I just want to see what you're asking. I'll probably have to follow up with Sean, but you're asking why return to aid, and the administrative assistance fee is tied in with readjusting permission. Yeah, I think that's the 2006 UCOP thing that I'll have to look into.

Sussman

- I'm curious how that request was made for that fee increase, considering there hasn't been aboard for, I believe it's two to three years now, and what what that process was like, and this is similar to fees, but in terms of your office, but you how do you recommend that the association goes about when there are bcuss or entities which don't have active boards, but are consolidating fees and rollover. What's your recommendation on that? Again, it's a similar thing I brought up with Associate Vice Chancellor Perkins.

AG

- Times are tough. I would agree that a pausing of a fee or getting that board filled would be great. Ideally, I would have a really spic and span answer for you, but this would be something that I would if I myself was trying to tackle it, I would probably talk to somebody on finance to find a like a good route, but I would assume that the answer would be to get rid of the fee. If the fee is not working, get rid of it. I mean, like, just simply outside of my position.

J) Committee Report

J-1) Standing Committee on Finance -

Jiang (9:19PM)

- On podium for important matters
- Tried to not bother whole body when unnecessary
- Has been to my notice that I think my involuntary remission of action to report has been misinterpreted as inaction for finance committee in general
- Want to take a chance to report for the past few weeks
- Please pay attention
- I'll start with office hours, the thing with finance committee, everytime we have them, they're real hours
- We meet 7 hours, also external meetings we do with RCOs
- We have 578 authorized signers, excluding staff
- Every workshop is 2-3 people
- 250 workshops so far
- This is per quarter
- One big aim for me is that we want more equitable spending rather than just the numbers
- Biweekly meetings with SEAL directors because they have contacts of RCO leaders that would need guidance
- Guidance and directors from finance committee or AS in general especially if they're new orgs
- The reason why I know about focus groups, we're actually doing a focus group as well based on last year's data analysis

- Of groups getting most funding and times from AS, what's the convenience for them and obstacles for others
- At beginning of quarter, talked about internal report of data analysis that i did over break, report will guide next year's reorg of financial accounts
- If you checked the admission/expenses outside of AS, large discrepancy of external structure, they're just far from the numbers we actually funded from these accounts
- Average that were funding every single year
- One other thing, FLUX requests, it's been updated every single month
- As we're figuring out if there's a more efficient way
- We also have a few examples
- The process of checking the archive was not tracked at all
- Non perishable purchase, impossible to get back
- People will volunteer and take that unless you let them know
- Attendance estimate and roster for travel events
- Keep track of numbers according to the budget
- Exception records, how many we offer and how many are needed
- Allowing RCOs to use exceptions from BCU entities
- Were really trying to get RCOs funded as much as we can
- One huge important thing is we try to optimize workload from this process
- Every single people request are catered towards needs
- A lot of BCUs only want exceptions, RCOs want specific kinds of events
- Were trying to make sure you wouldn't see something you would need to feel out
- Other internal things, internal disciplinary of how we train officers
- A lot of people need go through it
- Financial policy and procedures are complicated
- ASFC has to operate based on campus policy as well
- More than 68 pages of finance committee code
- Training and lots of disciplinary
- We trained officers before hand
- We make sure every single RCO
- Every single officer is supposed to be responsible for a certain RCO
- That responsibility goes with the officer communicating with them
- As you guys might know, that request doesn't really go away
- We actually have to handle them throughout the process
- Not something we can just leave after we hit approval
- A lot of times we need to fix a request because they did not meet financial policy
- We organize external meetings to decide, 5 hours, sometimes longer than normal senate meetings
- Normally average an hour or so
- To help them fix their request and budget
- We did the same thing for gaucho rocket
- Did the same thing for women in media, etc.
- The reason why you don't hear a report from finance committee
- Not because finance committee is a really easy job

- Everyone is trying really hard to do their job to make things efficient
- I want to walk you guys through the schedule, it important we see the changes made
- You guys might know, we actually broke a record of 64 requests
- We did 64 requests in one meeting without extending time
- Finance committee happens on monday, process happens on prior friday, 4PM request deadline
- On friday before 4 I send out the approval notification and then
- After 4, I pre review all the requests that go in
- Something we started to do this quarter is I started to write all of my things people might have a problem with
- They need additional info, they need to understand their requests are retroactive
- Start to send emails to every single person who submitted a request if they need
- If they need to fix requests prior to monday
- 6-7 hours at least
- This is what I try to do by making emails
- For example, when they missed their deadline, they don't need to show up to monday meeting
- We're not going to properly say unless it's very urgent, and there's problems of they don't have their rosters, or they need to provide a more day to the budget, not public to students
- We as a committee try to make these procedures as visible as possible
- There's a lot of ongoing projects we're trying to do
- When I talk to sean,
- Apparently we can collaborate with the schools Storkie bot which would be free an better
- We discussed possibility of these repetitive requests of room reservations and media reservations
- Which account for a lot of requests
- There has been obstacles with that
- Staff members are trying to get that in place
- There has been a little bit of problems
- That's something we try to do, we'd pay a lot of money and students could deduct
- But that's the dream and we'll see how we can go through that
- I do want to remind everyone
- Finance committee is non ending job
- In terms of everything
- There has been times I've been stopped
- And I'm late to my class, receiving officers texts at 3AM in the morning
- I just want to say
- Hamilton reference, Reynolds pamphlet, you may question my character but not my loyalty to the people
- We are very committed to the job were doing
- Were trying to dedicate to the quality of the
- To reach as many students as possible and benefit as much as we can

- If I have to be the b word in the room so be it
- If we have to be more prudent when we're suspicious, what we decide has financial impact
- Students can submit requests if we made a mistake
- I understand a lot of standards we're operating as finance committee aren't formalized or written on paper
- There's not really a clear policy to determine
- Very case by case standard
- Try to be as consistent as possible
- Please we are more than welcome for you to contest and challenge our decision
- Willing to change them
- Will guarantee you every single position made during the committee will have rationale

Wahidullah
- Think that was an amazing report
- As a resource, you were mentioning all these entities constantly requesting you
- I even become a point of contact sometimes because of those questions
- Because of the manual labor, have you guys created any particular resources, guidelines
- Any particular guidelines or questionnaires
- That maybe we can make as a standing point for BCUs instead of making you an exhaustive source
- That help make them
- So we can help you with your resources

Jiang
- Summarizing their questions that aren't in the legal code
- Aryan is helping
- He's helping out as well
- That we aim to throw in the campus so that everyone can see it
- Gonna start with SEAL
- University wide emails
- We only fund eligibility wide registers
- Were starting from there
- We have too much money, we need to get rid of it

Luken
- Do you find it easy to delegate these tasks yourself?
- Do you by nature of work take on the bulk of it?

Jiang
- Sometimes you cannot hold the standard that you hold yourself at for other people
- Not only because they dont get paid the same you do but

- People have other kinds of commitments
- If they have fulfilled their job as officers
- I don't think it's fair to put them into higher standards like I do, of responding to everything all the time
- There has been people that have been trying to do that and I deeply appreciate
- Finance committee is like trauma bonding
- Efficiency of finance committee is great because everybody has put there work into it
- Would suggest the internal disciplinary thing we did by assigning everyone's names and their responsibilities lined in legal code
- Officers gave different titles and serve for different purposes
- We actually have to tell them different job different ppl

J-2) Standing Committee on Outreach -

Luken

- We're planning to do an event called Cold Spell where we are going to pay for the ice rink in Goleta, and the bus or take students from the freshman dorm somehow out there. Of course, it's going to be available to all other students as well. That's a big event coming up. I have a funding quest for a committee to be able to implement this sit down dinner with students, a focus group. A focus group with students was something recommended by former members of the association as a good way to really understand what a generally random sample of students knows about the association and how we can support them. Then there's a third thing, for my funding request I will motion later and I'll be happy during that motion to elucidate any and all questions that you guys may have but we are doing a lot for the Senate on outreach, and so we would like the support from the Senate to be able to do those things monetarily. I know you didn't hear my whole thing, but if you have anything to mention, cold spell, focus group, and funding request.

Harter

- It sounds to me like you covered everything. We most likely need a little bit more money based on how our finances are looking right now.

Lala

- I ask this every week but GENCO?

Luken

- It's been brutal to work with financial operations because they are backed up with requisitions, new things, whatever so it's so been slipping through.

Lala

- So requisition get over to GENCO

Harter

- As far as I've hard Genco has done everything that they need to do. Luke, our financial guru and outreach, has done everything he needs to do. Everything is facilitated as far as we can. They're busy. That's basically what we have as far as that goes

J-3) Standing Committee on Liaison -
Wahidullah

- No new updates, same as last week. Just one additional thing for a point of information, we will be assigning our meetings this quarter instead of Tuesdays,to Thursdays 3:30-5:30. Just making one note because I've noticed that a lot of the collective discussions have been about BCUs and lock in fees, a lot of critical discussions that are going to be the majority of discussions in our committees and groups, so any thoughts or questions or concerns recommended you come to committee meetings more often. Most of our actions will be pertaining towards that, and your voices are very appreciated.

Than

- Working with CODE to get the Disability Cultural Center up. If anyone wants to join me on that, that would be great. BCUs, after hearing about the new liasonship thing, don't really like that they didn't get to pick their senate liaison, which is the exact replica of the system that we had before the liaison committee, so we can discuss that at a later time.

J-4) Standing Committee on Advocacy -
Ono (9:39PM)

- We are getting ready to table. We have a schedule that we can implement. It's just got to do some logistical stuff. I'm going to order something for us to hand out. Love to work with y'all as well some great advice from outreach on tabling
- I have update on Pardall Tunnel
- I've been in coordination with project manager at design and construction services DCS on campus
- Going to allocate 3k to them for starting project up
- Which is gonna involve survey work, coordinating between different orgs on campus for the
- Different orgs on campus that have jurisdiction over this tunnel
- More serious quote with that once they get the ball rolling
- This is really just for setup fees
- Going to allocate that money for committee on Friday
- Its a public works project dont expect it be cheap but as good as we make it
- Expect tunnel project to be as awesome as we can make it
- Happy to bring in Sussman

Lala

- Basic needs, historically, lot of blue books, finals materials, caffeine
- Is that apart of what's being planned?

Ono

- Yes
- Main thing we're looking at is quarter of safety
- Have outlines for quarter of safety
- Rape whistles, alarms, flashlights
- Do bluebooks and caffeine
- Increasing sitting spaces on campus
- I had some of our staff go and look for spots on campus that look nice and sittable but have no benches
- Stuff like that
- It's a nightmare for who has jurisdictions for what
- We're also looking at that

Harter

- Have more of a question about process
- When you want to do anything on campus, you have to figure out who you need to reach out to, and then you go down a communication rabbit hole
- If it would be helpful if staff members or someone elected became the person who knows where everything is on campus
- Exactly who you talked to type of thing
- May be a thing already but there's not a super effective version of it
- Basically a hub where all of anyone's projects involving administration can be centralized

Ono

- Sounds good
- Reach out to someone get referred to someone else

Luken

- Last election, after you submitted your ballot, whole set with survey
- Those results have a lot of insight
- With similar answers to would you like to see more flowers, sitting space
- Would you like to work with outreach, or some kind of senate capacity, in
- Implementing some of the changes students would like to see which those results

Ono

- Whatever beautification project or infrastructure is a huge pain
- I think we need to throw the entire weight of this body behind public works stuff we do
- Kind of big picture
- That's why I need you guys to sign off on anything
- Please send me that data
- Maybe I can bark up the tree enough
- Tabling and wellness items

- Longer term, we got tunnel and benches

Lala
- What makes it sittable?

Ono
- The green where the eternal flame is, that gigantic field by physical sciences, north and south, That entire lawn is basically asking for some space to sit. That isn't by Buchanan Hall, which is a miserable place
- There's plenty of space on google maps with all the pins
- Quite a few areas up there with grass and nice stuff, but why is it here, to just sit on the grass?
- Definitely more pleasant places on northeast side of campus

Enri
- Commencement might want to use that

J-5) Group Project and other Temporary Committee Reports-

Safety Committee
Sussman
- Romi has established contact with multiple organizations
- For the first meeting, the call, I'll bring them in
- To get their opinion on safety and sexual assaults on campus

Than - Objection
- Sean just talked about retreats
- One BCU approved funding for a winter retreat, 400 for winter
- We just talked about it with Sean

Lala
- Do you know when this retreat happened?

Than
- Don't know when the date is, but it's GGC (Global Gaucho Commission) january 13th minutes

Jiang
- I'm liaison
- They decided their date today
- It's for the purpose of their mission

Lala
- It's within the senate's ability to approve certain ones
